The PKR Wheels Fall Off

It's difficult to pinpoint where it all went wrong for PKR but the wheel began falling off. Its team of sponsored pros didn't have their contracts renewed, and they left their own stand-alone network in February 2016 to join Microgaming (MPN).

This is a promotional banner for Betfair Private Home Games. On the left, it says 'BETFAIR PRIVATE HOME GAMES' in large white letters, with 'WHERE YOU MAKE THE RULES' in yellow below it. In the center is a graphic of a house with a roof, surrounded by blue circuit-like lines and the words 'HOME GAMES'. On the right, there is a purple box with the Betfair logo and 'betfair POKER', a yellow button that says 'More info >>', and 'T&Cs apply' in small text at the bottom.

the PKR website resulted in a holding message being displayed.

"Further to earlier announcements, PKR limited and PKR Technologies Ltd have filed applications to Court for Administration orders, which will be heard in the week commencing 8th May 2017.

In November 2017, Maltese online casino Videoslots purchased the technology assets from the PKR portfolio. This gave them PKR's Mac, PC, Android and iOS clients. Videoslots planned to relaunch PKR the following year, but there was radio silence.

A Facebook member called Coralie Watson has been active in posting on various Facebook groups and communities.

All links she has posted so far lead to a website PKR3D.com which has been confirmed to UK & Ireland PokerNews to be an affiliate site. The quality of the copy has vastly improved since our original article, although there is still work to do. Players can sign up for a Videoslots account (no surprise there) or accounts at both Betsson and Betsafe, both of which are on Microgaming.

Players are prompted to create their Battle / Alias by signing up for a Videoslots account and making a deposit of at least £10, which does seem a little underhand and most people who land on the page will consider that practice being a smash and grab from Videoslots.

UK & Ireland PokerNews has seen correspondence between the owner of the PKR3D affiliate site and the management team behind Videoslots Poker and are confident we will see the PKR software gracing our screens again during the coming year. We have reached out to the said management team for comment.
